GLENDAL HIGH SCHOOL

Dear Bob-

I can't believe that our four years at GHS are over. We've had so many good times together and shared so many experiences that there is no where to begin. You've been the best neighbor anyone could want and I'm just glad that we have the summer left for the old routine. I just hope that the "gang" doesn't fall apart without our brilliant leadership! I'll really never forget all of our Student Council meetings and our laughs with Bozo. (I bet he won't either.) Also, I would say that no ^{CAR POOL} had as much fun or odd happenings (matches and ice showers) as we did. I just hope that we will arrive home safely on June 2. (If we've scraped through for nine months surely we'll live for one more week of my driving.)

At any rate, I'm really going to miss all of our fun, next year when I'm at A.U. Thanks for everything (which is a lot) that you've done for me. I'll never forget it. I'll always think of you as one of my best friends. (I would be getting tearful at this moment except that I know we can't help ~~not~~ but see each other due to our home environment. Do you realize that our opinions on people and ideas have agreed on nearly everything? I would say that it speaks well for us.)

Good luck next year at De Pauw. I know you'll have a ^{great} good time and I want to hear all about it on vacations.

I just read what you wrote and I

Tradition, achievement; this is Glendale!

Don Woody, Linda Stoner, John Carnahan, Ann Baker, Jim Reynolds, and Lyle Sparkman, when in 1965 Glendale had the opportunity of holding city offices.

Youth, growth, ACTION; this is the Falcon Generation!

September 8, 1963, the Honorable Hubert Wheeler, state commissioner of education, dedicated Glendale to Springfield; and in so doing, ignited the spark that touched off a new era. Scholastic excellence, athletic achievement, and individual determination were to make Glendale great; this year's seniors are the first class to be at Glendale for all four years and the last class to witness the growth of the school from the beginning.

Choices of Columbia blue and cardinal red as school colors, the Falcon as a mascot, cheerleaders, and Scotties marked only the first steps in creating the Falcon Generation. Student Council officers were elected; Tim Wrightsman was chosen as the first student body president.

Now, seniors, Glendale's freshmen officers were Bill Helfrecht, Cathy Cox, and Susan Siman.

Reigning as Glendale's first queen was Sally Lockridge. Sally was crowned at the halftime of the game in which the varsity scored a victorious upset over St. Joseph Central. This began the continuing tradition of victory at the Falcon Festival.

In the winter of 1964, seventeen new classrooms were added to Glendale's $2,000,000 structure in preparation for the onrush of students the following September.

And the students came, fortified with experience and armed with determination.

In athletics, the Falcon football team won the Ozark Conference championship, and Glendale was honored with the All-Sports trophy, an award given to the school with the most outstanding all-around athletic program.

Glendale's place in the community was fully realized when the offices of Springfield's city government were filled by Glendale High School students on Model City Government Day, February 26, 1965.

To recognize the two most outstanding senior students, the Falcon Generation added a new tradition, the Hall of Fame. Diane Blackwell and Barry Cox were the first to receive this coveted honor.

GREETING the crowd is Sally Lockridge, first Falcon Festival Queen, with the original Scotties standing at attention, marking a continued halftime tradition.

Honor, fun, school spirit; this is action!

SCOTTIES entertain at the annual Freshman mixer, held September 5, 1966, in the gym.

Glendale students demonstrated their sense of responsibility and national patriotism in October, 1965, when they organized operation BOG, which stands for Boys of Glendale. The original purpose of BOG was to send packages of food and gifts to former Glendale students who were fighting in Viet Nam. The program was later expanded to serve any area boys who were serving in Viet Nam.

On March 7, 1966, Glendale played Parkview in the State Basketball Tournament—and lost. But a victory was achieved that overshadowed the game. Glendale students turned out en masse and displayed a type of school spirit that has never been equalled.

Continued recognition was acclaimed for Glendale when on April 7, Governor Warren E. Hearnes made his first visit to a Missouri high school to speak to an assembly of the Glendale student body.

The school year of 1966-67 has brought to maturity the first Falcon Generation. As Steve Nurnberg was inaugurated September 29, he became president of a student body that would strive to continue Glendale's reputation.

Leslee Heyle, an attendant for three years, became the first Falcon Festival queen to have attended no other high school but Glendale.

Through outstanding scholastic achievements and athletic championships, Glendale has proven itself to be a school of renown, a school of action!

HIGHLIGHTING the traditional Inaugural Assembly, student-body president Steve Nurnberg receives the oath of office from Mr. Ford, along with cabinet members and representatives.

ON THE verge of tears, Leslee Heyle, Falcon Festival queen, is reassured by her escort, Tom Baker, as attendants Marti Mays and Luanna Bilyeu observe.

Board of Education

Provides facilities, teachers, opportunity

SERVING all school personnel and also the community PTA, school Board, and others, is the Administrative Services Building, 940 North Jefferson.

Concerned with provisions for the educational needs of 24,500 students currently enrolled in the Springfield Public Schools, the Board of Education strives to equip them to meet the needs of a growing community in a changing society.

Elected by the citizens, board members consider the many variables involved in their plans. New industry, urban renewal, residential developments, mobility of local population, and the rate of increase in overall student population play a vital role in their far-reaching revisions for the betterment of educational facilities.

Members of the Board are entrusted with the responsibility to provide for the intellectual, physical, and social needs of the students in providing adequate facilities, competent teachers, and educational opportunities for all students.

Compensating for the effort put forth in providing for the needs of the 42 elementary schools and kindergartens, seven junior highs, four senior highs, and the Vocational Technical School is the knowledge that they as members of the Board are making an immeasurable contribution to the future of the community and the nation.

Superintendent

Advises, guides

Engaged in providing quality educational opportunities to meet the needs of the individual in a changing environment, Dr. Graff works with the Board of Education.

Principally involved in any decision made by Dr. Graff are the students themselves, for whom he combines a deep respect, a sincere concern for their welfare, and an abiding faith in their integrity as the citizens of tomorrow.

From a system of 11,848 students enrolled in 29 public schools in 1952, the number of students attending Springfield schools has leaped to 24,500 in 54 schools under the administration of Dr. Graff.

Honored throughout the nation, Dr. Graff's recognitions in the field of leadership capabilities include an honorary doctor's degree by Drury College and election as president elect of the Missouri State Teachers Association for a term as president in 1967-68. He has served on numerous committees, including the Planning Committee of the Governor's Conference on Education last fall and is past president of the Missouri Association of School Administrators.

WORKING to build a more efficient system of education, Dr. Willard Graff has carried out the duties of Springfield Superintendent of Schools for 12 years.

THE Teachers' Advisory Council, a group representing all teachers, is addressed by Dr. Graff.

ADMINISTRATIVE BOARD—front row, Mrs. Hazel Ponder, director of personnel services; Dr. A. M. Alexander, assistant superintendent for secondary education; Dr. Willard J. Sweeney, director of pupil services; Dr. Joe Kuklenski, director of curriculum development; Kenneth Kraft, director of business services.

THE DIGNITY of an administrator belongs to assistant superintendent of secondary education, Dr. Alexander.

MODERATOR Mrs. Virginia Woodring questions high school students on "Teen Talk," a series shown on KYTV and also a winner of the Freedoms Foundation.

To his position as assistant superintendent for secondary education, Dr. Alexander brings the warmth of a friend and the dignity of a professional administrator.

With major duties in administering an effective program of secondary education for the district, under the general leadership of the superintendent and in accordance with Board objectives and policies, Dr. Alexander was delegated the responsibility in the areas of personnel, supervision, and instruction. His depth of understanding of educational problems and his professional approach in working with both lay and professional people contribute to his effectiveness as an educational leader.

Fundamental to his educational leadership is a profound respect for the individual. He visits the secondary schools often to keep this personal interest in each teacher. He also meets with the Student Council leaders from the different schools to assist with their needs and problems.

His concept of education as a "builder of people" is basic to the decisions he makes in planning an educational program for young people.

ELECTED council members, Steve Nurnberg and Bob Guthrie, and appointed member Cindy Lindman discuss the agenda for the Advisory Council of Springfield Student Councils with Mr. Jones, Mr. Ford, and Dr. Alexander.

SPRINGFIELD high school principals, Fred Balden, Parkview; James Ford, Glendale; Ralph Hamilton, Central; and William Gist, Hillcrest, work with Dr. Alexander in a regular monthly planning session to assure coordination of activities in the secondary schools.

Principals, Administrative Assistants

Strive for higher goals

From the day Glendale first opened its doors in September of 1963, it has been under the guidance and direction of James E. Ford, principal, and Harold Deiker, assistant principal, working in close association with Russell King and Mrs. Dee Mahan, who were given the new title of Administrative Assistants this year.

A warm personality and a genuine interest in the students and their affairs is a helpful asset shared by both the principal and assistant principal. This familiarity with student life coupled with a desire to lead Glendale to the highest possible level of achievement is the trademark of success in these administrative officials, a trademark won with difficulty through experience and used with distinction by Mr. Ford and Mr. Deiker in the daily performance of their duties.

Mr. Ford and Mr. Deiker work closely in conjunction with the Parent Teachers Association. The PTA is dedicated to the purpose of bringing about a closer relationship and understanding between school administration and faculty officials and Glendale parents.

WELCOMING students in the Hi-Day assembly, Mr. Ford generates enthusiasm for a great year.

The counseling of students from ninth grade through graduation and advice on the selection of college required close attention from the guidance counselors.

From the first day as a freshman through the stages of sophomore and junior grades up to the goal of senior and graduation, each counselor remains with his particular class.

Beginning with a new freshman class, Miss Beverly Black undertook the long and arduous task of introducing newcomers to Glendale to the strange world of high school life.

Second-year high schoolers were taken in hand by Mrs. Mildred Green. Many hours were spent in preparation for the Kuhlman Anderson Test and the Iowa Test of Educational Development.

Mr. Paul Moore handled the job of preparing members of the junior class for their development into students capable of dealing successfully with senior citizenship.

Organization of pre-college testing and counsel of college-bound students filled the days of Mr. Leon Lee, senior class counselor, as another generation of Falcons bade adieu to Glendale.

New grammar texts enrich curriculum

AN extra activity for Mrs. Lynda Glenn and Nancy Jordan is arranging an attractive bulletin board of book jackets and reading lists.

Freshmen English students at Glendale not only learned correct forms of grammar but were introduced to imaginative worlds of great literature. Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet and Antigone by Sophocles acquainted them with the characteristic, traditional forms of Elizabethan and classical drama.

A mixture of literary periods and authors were studied by sophomores, including The Pearl by Steinbeck, Jane Eyre by Charlotte Bronte, and The Secret Sharer by Joseph Conrad.

New texts, Modern Grammar and Composition, I, II, and III presented a new method of learning grammar based on sentence pattern classification according to word order. Practical experience in composition enabled students to develop and master proper writing skills.

Emphasis was added to lessons by recordings which captured the chills of Poe's eerie narratives, Frost's descriptive verse, and Twain's humorous anecdotes. Classroom work and outside reading on related studies encouraged students to seek a more mature outlook on life.

Directing studies toward literature of the English and American people, seniors and juniors learned to analyze and appreciate themes and symbolism in philosophy, narration, poetry, and drama. An overall approach to American literature began in English III with comprehensive studies of Emerson, Holmes, Poe, Twain, Longfellow, Melville, Bryant, and Crane.

Senior English was divided into two programs of study: English IV C and modern literature, English IV L, a study of English writers and their works and advanced composition. English IV C pupils wrote compositions based on varied situations, while students in the IV L college preparatory course did much writing in both the creative and expository fields.

The intensive study program included English history paralleling authors from the Anglo-Saxon period to modern times. Two Shakespearean tragedies, Macbeth and Hamlet, were examined for their literary and historical value.

Seniors who departed from Glendale with four years of English were fully aware of the vast impact which literature has had upon the shaping of our society.

Aside from producing the outstanding Christmas, Easter, and Exchange Assemblies, dramatics students improved self-confidence and stage ability through participation in the all-school play, reader's theaters, and the technical aspects of stage work.

Two divisions of debate and one of individual competition were featured in the annual tournament, January 13 and 14, sponsored by the Glendale speech department and Norman Marshall. BRENDA Miller, Linda Walton, Steve Clinkenbeard, Fred Clark, Editor Sue Gentry, Steve Bean, Harold Nichols, Lyle Steward, and Susan Siman rush to meet QUILL deadlines.

Journalism students worked feverishly to maintain the high standards of the school as they published 27 editions of the Quill and The Falcon. The Quill received an All-American honor rating for the second semester of 1966 and The Falcon received a First Place rating by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Students studied writing and format techniques, wrote and edited thousands of words, studied professional publications and career opportunities, and gained a better concept of mass media.

To attain high qualities of leadership, Suzan Gentry, Quill editor; and Linda Bell and Linda Brown, Falcon editors, attended a summer clinic at the University of Detroit. Seven students and Mrs. June Burkett attended the NSPA convention in Chicago during Thanksgiving. A backstage interview with the "New Christy Minstrels" climaxed the exciting trip.

The department sponsored a "Chalk Talk," published an "Extra" for Open House, and worked with other city journalism staffs to host the Regional Journalism Clinic for area schools.

EVEN the conjugation of Spanish verbs can take on a humorous aspect as Mrs. Beverly Aton explains a new lesson while helping her class during a board drill.

Spanish, French, and Latin gave students a broader, well-rounded background and enlarged their scope of world understanding.

Spanish students explored the world of Spanish-speaking countries through books, slides, and films. Magazines such as Life and El Sol, newspapers, games, and songs assisted students in learning the language. Spanish III and IV classes concentrated on song translation, reading short stories and plays, and performing skits in Spanish.

To master the language, French students combined reading, writing, and speaking. Reading novels by French authors was required as were two research papers on French culture and influences in Missouri. Second-year students prepared English translations of French literary masterpieces.

Latin I emphasized drillwork, grammar, roots, and the preparation of derivative notebooks. Advanced scholars read supplementary books in medieval Latin as well as the Iliad, the Aeneid, and the Metamorphosis. In the fall, Mr. Keith Nodding, visiting exchange teacher from Chester, England, presented slides and lectured about Roman influences in England.

Fine Arts

Culture, individuality stressed in art

ART I students Johnelle Kinnamon, Martha Beveridge, Robert Lilly, and Jim Hutchinson admire the first pieces of pottery finished by the art department's new glazing booth as art instructors Miss Jayne Meadows and Mrs. Eileen Straton point out techniques of the new method for finishing pottery.

New methods of teaching art classes were introduced at Glendale this year, as students undertook Egyptian painting and construction of primitive ceramic pots. Included in the art curriculum was the design of imitation-stained glass windows, sponsorship of the annual hall art gallery, participation in the art history tournament, and a field trip to Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City.

This year Glendale's art department received a ceramic spray booth for glazing ceramics. Other facilities added this year were slides in the field of art history, and the new textbook, Grombick's The Story of Art, was introduced to students.

During Glendale on Display, art classes presented demonstrations of color mixing using primitive ingredients, sketching from live models dressed in Egyptian, Greek, and Roman costumes, a hall art show, and prehistoric cave paintings.

Assisting Miss Jayne Meadows this year was Mrs. Eileen Straton, who gave instruction in first-year art.

Music

Music brightens life

Orchestra, band, choir, and Madrigal members did an outstanding job by adding music to school assemblies, parades, festivals, concerts, and Commencement services.

The marching band journeyed to Fulton to perform in their annual away-from-home football game. In addition, they marched at home games, entered ensembles in local activities, and presented assemblies to area junior high schools. They appeared at both the state musical festival held in Columbia and the Springfield Music Festival at Parkview High School.

The choir sang Christmas songs at the Heer's Singing Tower and the Brentwood Christmas tree lighting services. They, too, entered groups in local and state competition. The orchestra's schedule included area and regional contests and programs.

DIRECTING the junior-senior choir, Mr. Will teaches voice blending and variations for effect in a performance.

MEMBERS of Glendale's marching band are a familiar sight on the campus as they practice intricate routines for football games each morning at 7:30 A.M. during the football season.

Sophomores 'drive' toward responsibility

CLASS discussion is an important element in driver's education as Coach Lechner helps students understand principles involved in safe driving.

Students gained practical experience through driver training, a course required for all sophomores. Emphasized strongly in the course was the study of safety for a good driver and obedience of traffic laws while on the road.

These objectives were achieved by practicing in the driver units, simulated automobiles, while students viewed realistic driving films. Practical driving knowledge was applied when students drove on the highways and on the city's thoroughfares.

First-aid was also stressed in the course. Different methods of bandaging and applying splints were given the most attention. Students practiced these aspects of emergency first aid in the classroom.

Depth and visual perception were checked this year by a new visual machine added to the department. Experiments were also conducted dealing with the student's reaction time.

Sophomores were also given a period of classroom study for the purpose of familiarization with the Missouri Driver's Guide in order to prepare them for driver's license examination.

SAFE driving means concentration for sophomores Gail Swartz, Linda Vaughn, Carol Pickering, and Connie Miller.

Freshmen entered the world of social studies and found themselves introduced to the fundamental ideals of American democracy and participation as citizens. They developed a basic concept of the "American way of life." Civics for Americans, related film documentaries, and class projects, such as panel discussions and debates, provided the basic theme.

The study of world history acquainted the sophomore with an account of the relationship between intellectual, social, economic, and political factors in the growth of nations. Special reports, research papers, World History and Cultures, the new text, and overhead projectors with patterned overlay sheets were some of the learning techniques in the world history classes.

The last year of the required social studies program was devoted to the study of American history. The dramatic story of our country's development to its present status aroused interest in today's conflicts and problems. Students read outside reference texts, researched special projects, and viewed films describing the cornerstone events of American democracy.

A FORMAL lecture atmosphere reflects interest in the faces of Mrs. Manda Boykin's American history students.

The student's senior year was comprised of elective courses in social studies, stressing cultures, the mind, economics, and our heritage. American problems classes attended various city council meetings in order to study city government first hand. Students expressed their own opinions in regard to problems, with special emphasis on critical thinking, and developed an interest in active participation in politics, foreign aid, and policy.

Sociology and psychology classes examined people, their minds, and their lives. Not only have psychology students discussed people, but they have also conducted a study of the brain and nervous system. The sociology classes have applied their learning to experiments dealing with the conditioning of mice.

Students enrolled in American heritage classes were involved in the study of the nature of our democratic society and problems it faces. The study of American heritage was supplemented by the use of films, records, outside reading material, and projectors.

Experimenting holds key to the future

Earth science was offered for the first time in the Springfield Public school system this year. In the natural science field, it was designed to stress the physical aspects of the world.

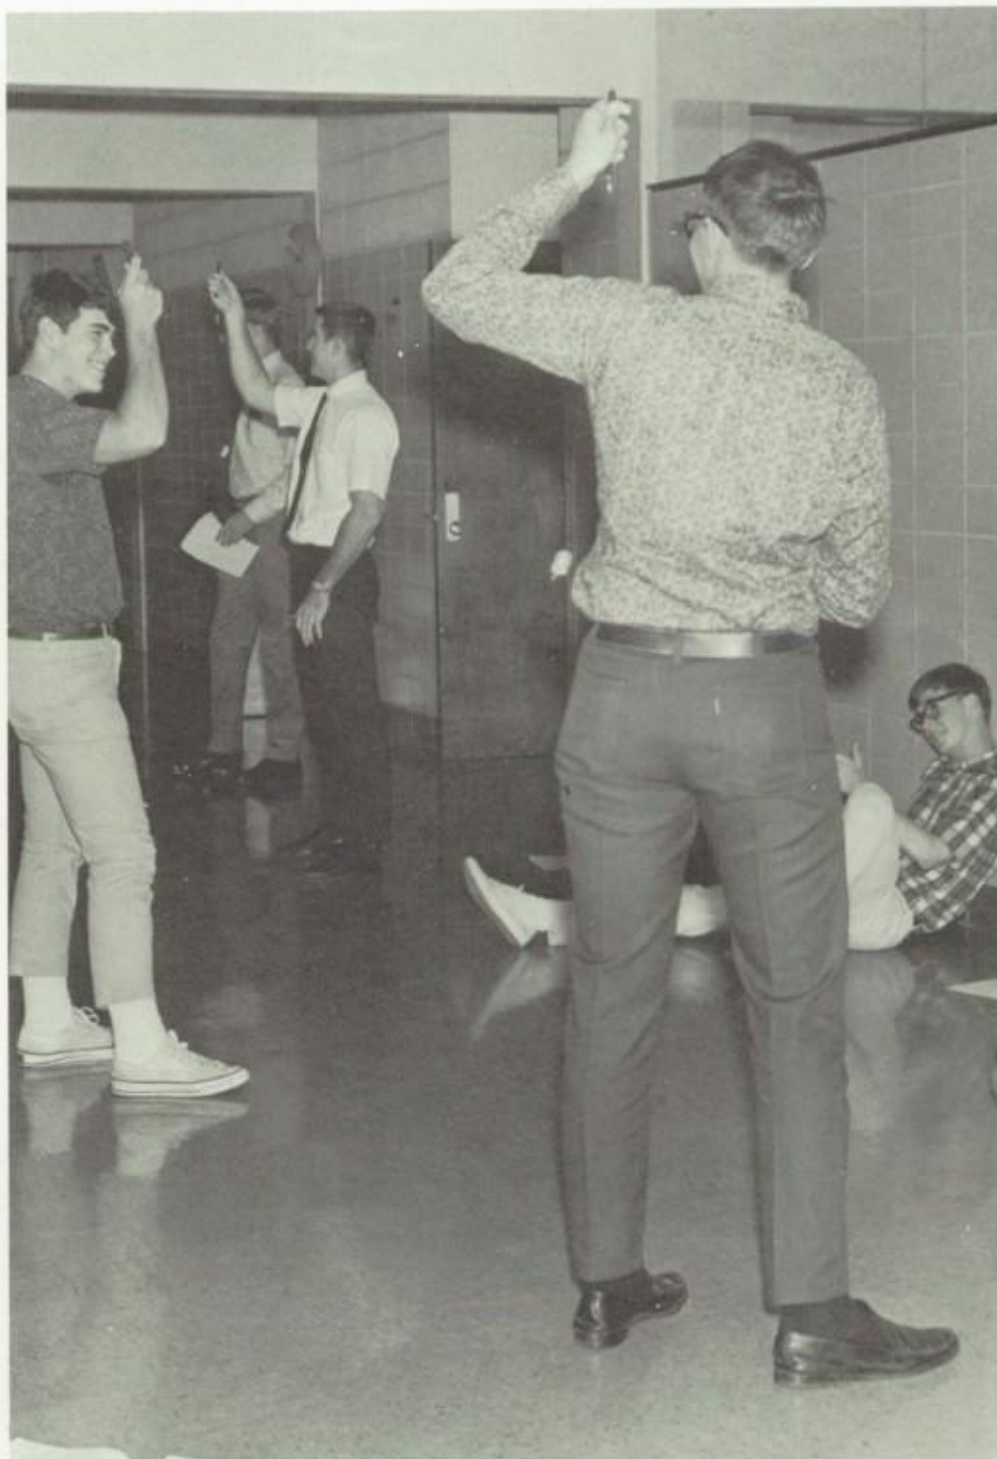

Biology, earth science, chemistry, and physics prepared students for careers in the related fields as well as cultivating an interest in the vast field of science which will play an increasingly greater and more involved part in the world as time goes on.

The addition of modern, up-to-date equipment to the science department included an expensive linear air track which was utilized by the physics classes to indicate velocity and acceleration with an almost complete absence of friction. Used to show a much more detailed structure in a living object was another accessory, a phase microscope.

The preparation of students for fields in advanced technology, medicine, and pharmaceutical work, engineering, chemistry, and geology was one goal of Glendale's science department. A fundamental knowledge of the properties of modern science for use in any vocational field was also stressed.

SEEDS, a skull, a hornet's nest, and a horse fetus are displayed in Mrs. Belle Copsey's biology room.

Digit analysis adds to understanding

The mathematics department at Glendale provided students with a solid foundation in the field of math and led to future courses and careers in the areas of engineering, science, and applied mathematics.

The ability to use and understand numbers and their properties is a requirement for an individual to keep in touch with everyday life.

During the District Teachers Convention, September 23-24, Glendale's mathematics department hosted area teachers in a conference. The meeting, the first ever to be held at a high school, presented innovations in the field of mathematics education.

March was the date for the administration of the National Mathematics Test. The NMT was open to juniors, seniors, and recommended sophomores interested in the field of math.

For the seniors who had completed the main college preparatory classes of Algebra I, geometry, Algebra II, and math analysis-trigonometry, a special course in calculus was given at Drury College.

Business Education

Practical studies yield insight

Students entered business education classes in 1966 with the intention of preparing for future vocations in the business fields.

Through instruction in such courses as book-keeping, business English, business law, clerical practice, salesmanship, shorthand, and typewriting, students not only acquired a knowledge of business facts and understanding but learned the skill of thinking for themselves.

During the year, business classes participated in the Administrative Management Society spelling test. Those who received perfect scores were awarded certificates.

With the aid of mimeograph and duplicating machines; manual, electric, and long carriage typewriters; a calculating machine; and a dictaphone, the department was able to aid the students in learning business practices. A multiple listening unit for dictation practice was added this year to enrich the business program. This new machine accommodated ten students at a time with a choice of four different listening speeds.

TYPISTS learn the importance of accuracy and speed through timed writings and extended business assignments in this sixth hour typing class.

Steps toward the modern business world

KNOWLEDGE of the product and its properties is important to a salesman like Charles Looney who uses this knowledge in conferring with his employer.

"Fostering a deep respect for the dignity of work," was the goal of Glendale's Cooperative Occupational Education program. On-the-job training was provided for both distributive education students and those engaged in trade and industries.

The state C.O.E. convention held during March offered students the opportunity to compete with others for honors in the areas of parliamentary procedure, essay, business and vocational spelling, sales demonstration, mathematics of distribution, job interviews, and the selection of Distributive Education student of the year.

Featured as the main event of the school year was the annual all-city Employer-Employee Appreciation Banquet, held January 26. Mr. Lowell Burkett, Executive Director of the American Vocational Association, addressed approximately 450 employers and employees.

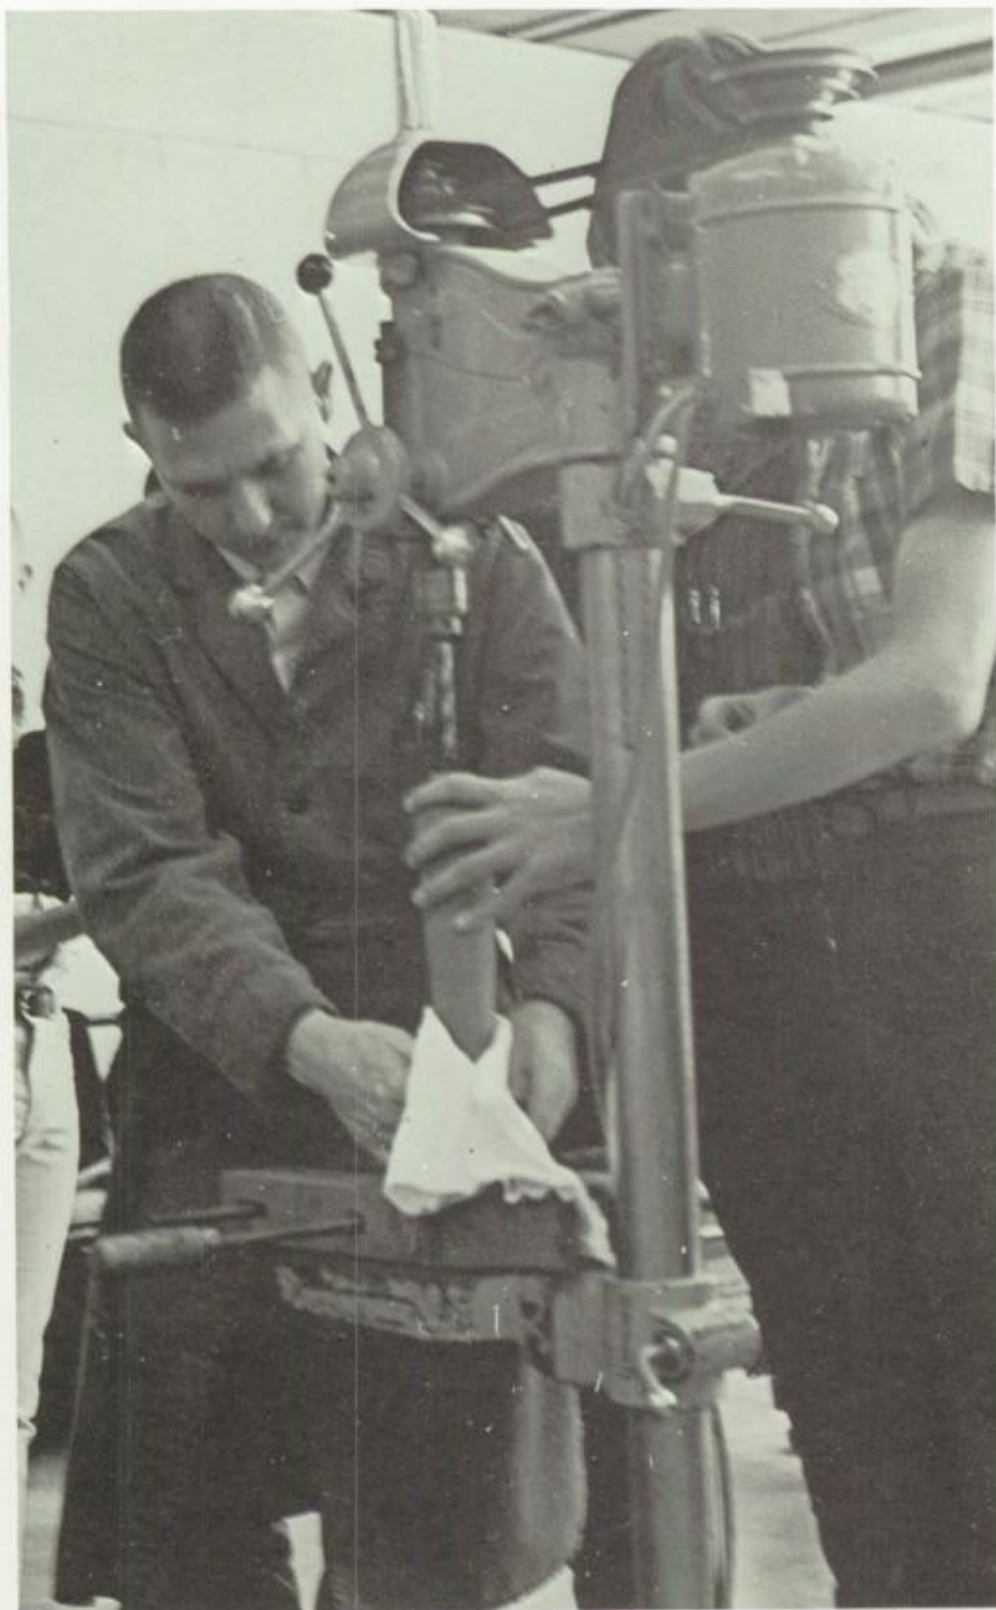

These two organizations are closely interwoven with the school program. Distributive education students were members of the Distributive Educational Clubs of America (DECA). Trades and industries participants were members of the Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America (VICA).

Industrial Arts

Boys perfect skill

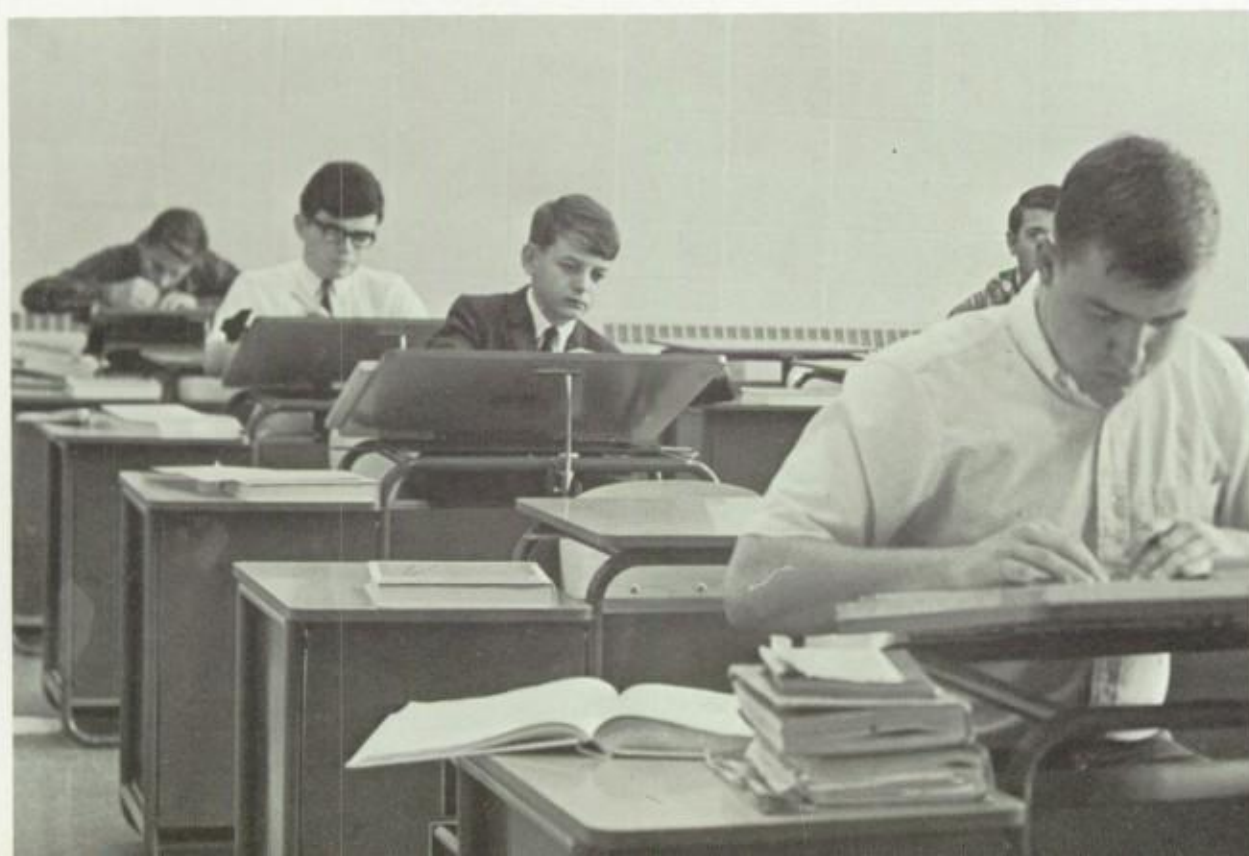

Equipped with modern facilities, students of industrial arts developed skill and acquainted themselves with the safety of hand and machine equipment.

Beginning and advanced courses in electricity, metalwork, woodwork, and drafting were made available.

The creation of wood and metal projects allowed students to reveal their talents in design and craftsmanship while careful study broadened their knowledge. Woodworking projects varied from the construction of furniture to bowls shaped on the lathe. A minimum of seven projects in metalwork provided experience in welding and forging wrought and sheet metal.

While general drafting involved basic techniques and procedures of drafting, advanced drafting including pre-engineering techniques.

General electricity covered all phases of electricity, including basic circuits and radar. Advanced students were introduced to the electronics field. Project work included the repair of small electrical devices such as irons, toasters, and radios.

Skills are applied for future vocations

SEATED at the drafting table, Sharon Griffin uses the drafting machine to produce a drawing as she is assisted by Dan Hunt, Jim Inman, and Darrell Rose.

Seventy-nine Glendale students were included in the four-hundred twenty boys and girls from the senior high schools who enrolled for courses in the Vocational Technical School. These students had a choice of fourteen occupational areas, which gave them a head start toward their future work.

Students scheduled courses on a half-day basis at the Vocational Technical School during their junior and senior years. The number of girls enrolled in the school increased because of growing interest in data processing, technical drafting, and the practical nursing program. Graduates of the Vocational Technical School were assisted in obtaining employment in the occupational area in which they received training.

To meet the needs of the high school and adult students, facilities at the Vocational Technical School were expanded by an addition of 26,000 square feet to the existing building. Ground for the new addition was broken in December. The addition provided room for a new welding shop, and a technical drafting laboratory.

As advanced techniques in interior design were family living, a course designed to prepare girls for marriage, a complete wedding was planned and performed. Local jewelers and florists talked about gained practical experience by caring for children

Physical Education

Develops coordination

Are young people too soft today? The physical education department headed by six qualified instructors proved that this statement could not be applied to participants in Glendale's three-year program.

A complete program of intramural sports was introduced for the first time this year. The program consisted of bowling, tennis, basketball, softball, and volleyball. These activities provided an outside interest for members of organized teams.

Boy's physical education classes wrestled, tumbled, and practiced track and field events. Physical fitness tests following these sports activities increased the development of each individual.

Physical education for the girls included work on the new balance beam and parallel bars as well as units of basketball, softball, volleyball, bowling, and tennis. They performed on the rings, climbed ropes, tumbled, and practiced rhythmic works.

Junior courses consisted of four-week sessions of class work in health which alternated with periods in the gym and on the field.

Personnel add to school life at Glendale

Courtesy of Judy Dykman

Maintaining a clean, up-to-date, and well organized school is the duty of the many behind-the-scenes personnel.

Keeping Glendale clean and all of its modern facilities functioning properly was a full day's job for the school's maintenance department. Included in the custodians' daily routine is a schedule of window washing, floor polishing, cafeteria upkeep, and general repair.

The preparation of 1,000 hot lunches each day was the responsibility of the cooking staff. Every meal required much planning and preparation before the food was ready for the students's consumption.

The office secretaries kept careful files of records and transcripts while maintaining a well-organized and smooth-working office. The attendance office secretaries were responsible for checking student attendance and keeping secretarial records for the administrative assistants and counselors.

All told, it is a well-ordered and conscientious group of individuals who made possible the functioning of Glendale.

Leslee reigns over the Falcon Generation

*Miss Leslee Heyle
1966 Falcon Festival Queen*

The height of this year's Falcon Festival activities was the crowning of Miss Leslee Heyle as the first true Falcon Generation Queen, October 14.

The coronation, usually scheduled at halftime on the football field, was postponed due to the heavy rain just prior to the 7-0 Falcon victory over Joplin. Leslee, the first queen to be a member of the Falcon Royalty four years, was crowned at the traditional Falcon Festival dance held in the GHS gym.

Attendants to Miss Heyle's Falcon Court were seniors, Luanna Bilyeu and Marti Mays; juniors, Susie Morris and Kathy Schien; sophomores, Christi Sala and Debbie Stine; and freshmen, Toni Bellmann, and Leslie Gary.

THE beauty and composure of Miss Leslee Heyle, 1966 Falcon Festival Queen, are reflected in her home atmosphere.

Dear Bob, this is an appropriate page to sign because you can always look here and say with determination "When you are number 2, you try harder." You have always been my friend (crud) and a secret — I VOTED FOR YOU — We have had tremendous fun with cakes this year and at dances — ah — and you have always been straight forward and honest. Keep it up and be nice and don't be good because good people never make it. Just remember Glendy

Hall of Fame, Student Council

Honor two; serve by representation

Nominated on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and school service were seniors in the upper 25 percent of their class in the first Hall of Fame election, February 28.

Steve Clinkenbeard and Cindy Lindman were announced as Hall of Fame King and Queen at the annual dance, March 17.

Steve Nurnberg, student body president, and Bob Guthrie, vice-president, were elected by popular vote to officiate at each Student Council meeting. Assembling once a month, the Council, a member of the Missouri Association of Student Councils, discussed problems and improvements pertaining to school life. Members included the elected representatives from homerooms, twelve class officers, and thirteen Cabinet members. The Cabinet members were appointed by a committee which included the sponsor, student body president, and members of the faculty.

Dear Bob, Dolly I'm glad we have a date to the senior prom. you are the most tremendous boy and this date will be a perfect way to end the year. I really don't know what I would have done without you these four years. you have such a great personality and have always been such a good friend whom I needed you. I'm Representative Assembly, Cabinet so glad that you were vice-president this year. It's because of people like Guide student body to new heights you that makes Glendale so great. I know that you'll be just as great a success.

LED by Steve Nurnberg, Student Council representatives find a moment to relax from their discussion of current business in an early morning session.

Glendale's Student Council worked many hours planning, discussing, and reporting the thoughts of each student.

The twelve Cabinet members met once a week under the direction of Steve Nurnberg, student body president. This group did the actual organizing of all extracurricular activities, which included the Freshmen Mixer, student directories, and sponsoring drives for the United Fund and the March of Dimes.

A new victory bell was purchased by the Council in addition to two felt spirit banners. Members also participated in the city, district, and state Student Council conventions held in Springfield and Kansas City.

The Council also helped organize two victory soc-hops, the Hall of Fame dance, and the fourth Falcon Festival.

Chaucer's pilgrims were recreated in the form of a humorous parody for the first meeting of the Cambridge Society, composed of English IV-L students.

The Cambridge Society again published the Vignettes, a literary booklet with writings submitted by Glendale students. Highlighting the year's activities was the annual banquet, April 12, at the Riverside Inn. Members dressed as caricatures of well-known English characters and authors.

Crossing national and international boundaries, high school students engaged in the American Field Service program gained much in the way of new experiences. In the summer of 1966, Glendale's first AFS exchange student, Ruth Ann Weaver, visited Sweden as the daughter of the Sjöholm family and then acted as sister to Belgium exchange student Josette Van Gansen.

New activities added dimensions of interest to Le Cercle Francais, sponsored by the French department. With a club membership of 86, larger than ever before, monthly meetings included such programs as a treasure hunt, Christmas and Valentine's Day parties, guest speakers, and a banquet. During a bus trip to St. Louis, members viewed sights and places of interest which reflected the French influence in the city.

El Club de Español promoted the desire of members to learn more of the Spanish language and culture through informal discussions, dinners, and parties. Dinner meetings were held at the Mexican Villa and Shakey's Pizza Parlor.

Judy Cox was honored as "Piñata Princess" at the traditional Christmas festivity which was patterned after original Mexican customs. A picnic was held in the spring.

Apply knowledge

The Latin Club witnessed a variety of meetings this year, accented by the Saturnalia at Christmas when students dressed and ate "as the Romans did."

An exchange teacher from England, Keith Nodding, teacher of both Greek and Latin, lectured on Roman influences in England with the use of visual aids at a Latin Club meeting.

"Phases of Safety" news articles were published regularly in accordance with the policy of the Safety Council. In cooperation with the QUILL staff, the dangers of smoking were presented in a March issue.

Members delegated to represent Glendale at the statewide Youth Safety Congress in Jefferson City were Johnelle Kinnamon and Bob Blair. "Traffic Problems Around School" was the subject for informative lectures and discussion groups at the convention.

History, Art

Discover culture

A busy year for the Art Club began with the purchase of reproductions from Picasso and Van Gogh and a classical Greek sculpture. Members dressed as cavemen to exhibit prehistoric art at Open House and as characters in famous paintings at an informal party. Other activities included a tour of the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, the Glendale Art Show, the District Art Association meeting at SMS in March, and an original kite-making-flying party on March 2 to welcome spring winds.

History Club members planned the year around the theme, "History Comes Alive through Travel." The first session featured a "slide-tour" of Africa and Egypt including Mount Kilimanjaro and the Great Pyramids. Featured at the December meeting was Father Schlitt, who told of his experiences while studying in Europe. At tradition at Glendale, the Social Science Fair was held again in the spring.

Dramatics, Debate

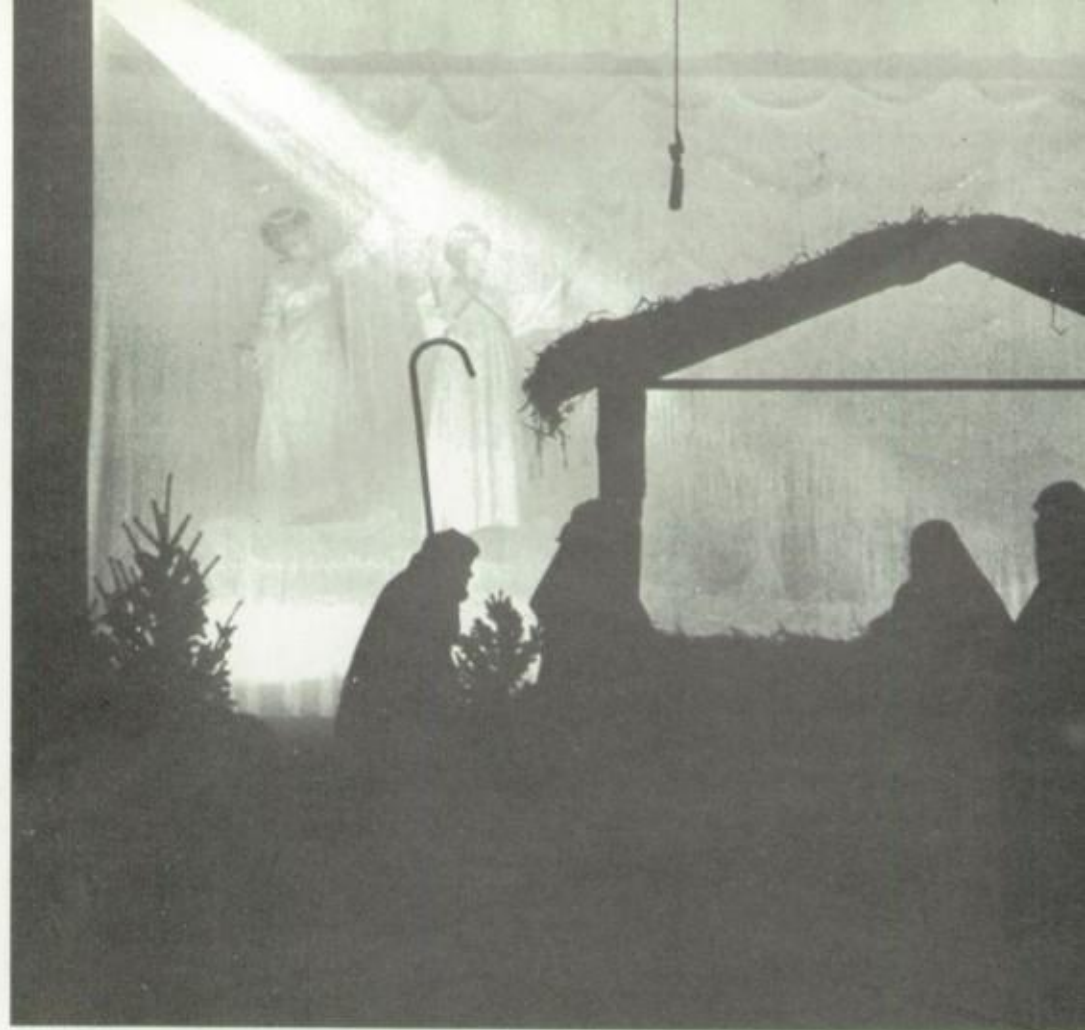

Spur new talent

Rodgers and Hammerstein's Carousel highlighted the year for the dramatics department as the first musical in Glendale's four-year history. Student volunteers worked to produce a three-level multi-backdrop set, gay costumes, and community interest through publicity arrangements.

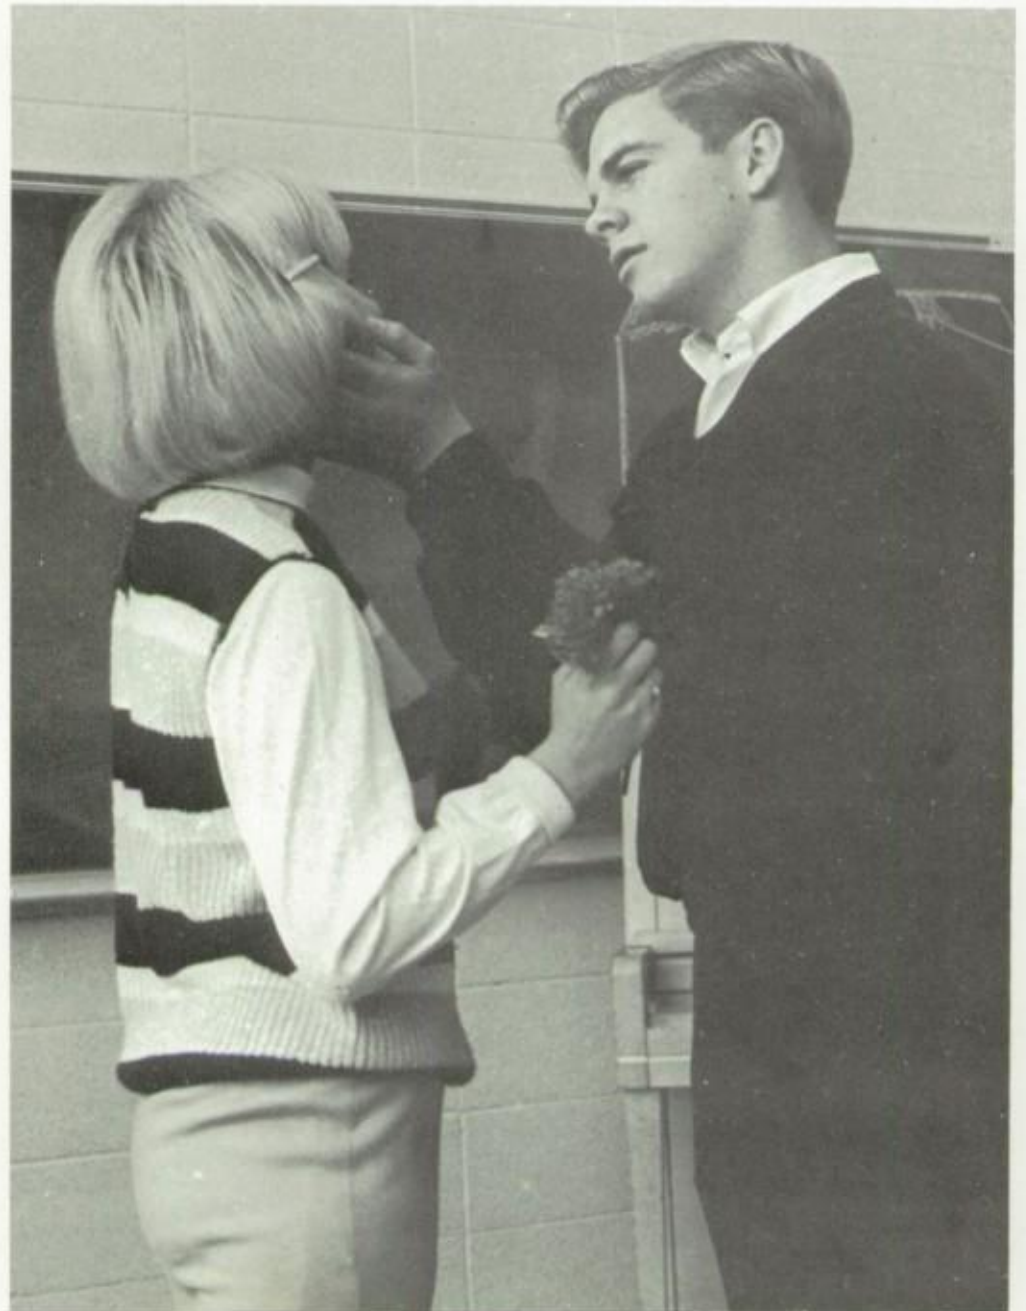

Having a tradition of lively assemblies in preceding years, the dramatics department also directed the school Christmas and Easter assemblies and the annual talent shows.

The most outstanding program was the appearance of the Spurrllows and television star Don Grady, November 11.

Participating in Glendale's interstate speech and debate tournament, January 13 and 14, were four hundred students from thirty-two schools. Altogether, the speech department entered thirteen tournaments, including the state National Forensic League, as well as district and local tournaments.

Work as citizens

A Christmas party for the Good Samaritan Boys' Ranch, a VISTA worker, scholarship, and a former principal in Nigeria filled the yearly agenda for members of the Future Teachers of America.

Through the year, they sponsored cadet teachers Linda Fleming and Diana Dutton, served at banquets for a scholarship fund to be awarded on the basis of academic excellence and efforts in FTA, and served their school and community.

Joining efforts to demonstrate the Model Judicial cases in Springfield were members of the Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi-Y. Gather to learn Indulging in "wise use of leisure time" were members of the Chess Club. Club members, meeting on Thursday nights in various homes, found chess an inexpensive and challenging hobby which is growing steadily in popularity throughout the school and nation with the younger set.

Designed to promote interest in and knowledge about coins both rare and unique from various parts of history, the Coin Club provided a chance for members to exhibit and further their collections. Successful displays were held during Glendale's Open House in November and the Second Annual Coin Show, May 11.

Members of the Library Club applied their knowledge of library techniques in actual working experience and increased their learning through speakers and discussion. The group also sponsored a Christmas party at the Cerebral Palsy Center.

SPEAKING before the Library Club, Miss Sarah Parker, reference librarian at the Springfield Public Library, discusses this year's best sellers.

Train for future

Competing for the Gold Seal Award and honorary titles at district, state, and national conventions, the Future Business Leaders of America had a chance to present their skills in areas of public speaking, spelling, and chapter achievements. District and state conventions were held in April and May with the national convention in June at San Francisco.

Beginning an educational and funfilled year, the Glendale chapter of Future Homemakers of America met in Conway for a regional meeting. FHA planned a year of varied activities, including an international foods party, a party for pre-school children, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet, which featured Janice Robinson, "Miss Missouri."

To the theme of "Winter Wonderland", Janie Casey was crowned FHA Queen at the first annual formal Christmas Banquet held December 17, at the Colonial Hotel.

COE, Student Workers

Gain experience

The COE Club, sponsored by the Glendale Cooperative Occupational Education program, gives students a broader understanding of both DECA and VICA, while maintaining social interests.

A breakfast at the Platter in November and a city-wide dance and picnic in the spring were activities open to club members as well as the annual Employer-Employee Appreciation Banquet which was held January 26, at Parkview High School. Members competed for honors at the State Leadership Convention, March 20. Completing the year was the Glendale COE Banquet at the Shady Inn in May.

By collecting roll slips, keeping track of absentees, and distributing passes for secretaries, the student workers aided in the smooth operation of Glendale. Each period seven students worked in the various offices; two in the main office, four in the attendance office, and one for each counselor.

DEVOTING one hour a day to help with office work, Bill Helfrecht varies his activities from sorting and stuffing mail boxes to filing and collecting absentee slips.

COMPLETING their duties first hour, Cindy Barclay and Sue Slankard change the calendar of events.

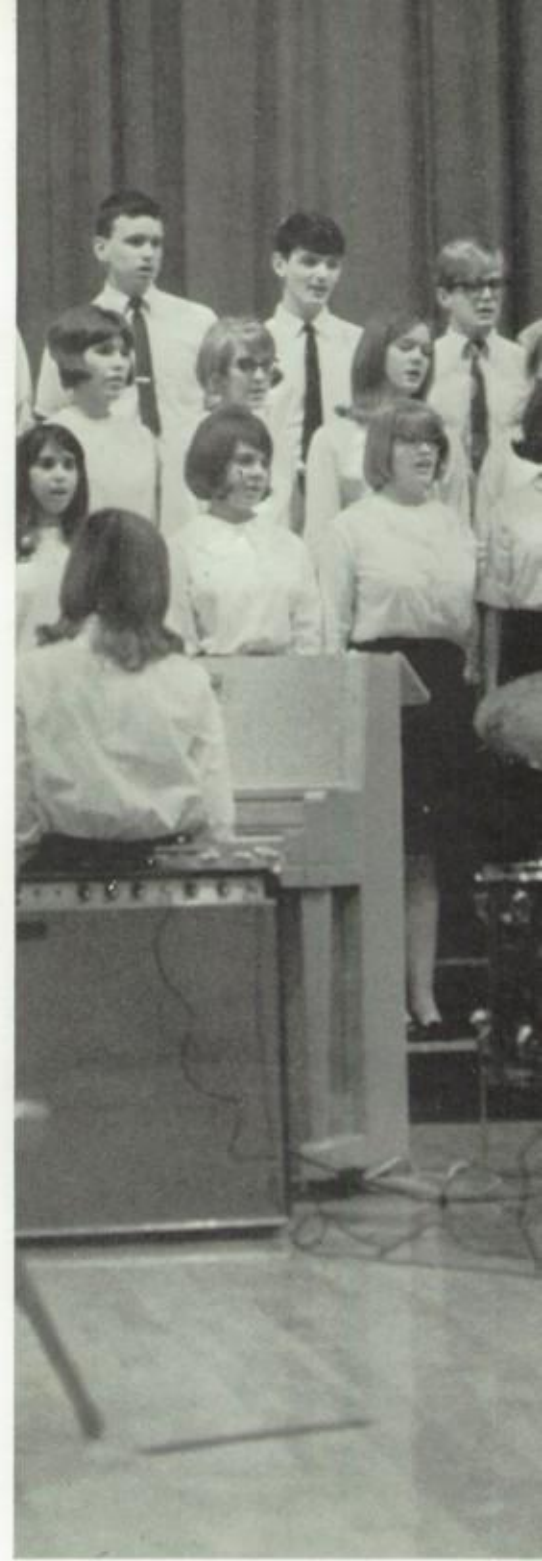

Choirs

Create harmony

Learning through constant practice, members of the Choir, directed by Mr. Will, concentrated on further development in the field of music. They sang at traditional school assemblies, notably the Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, and Choir and Orchestra Assembly.

Public appearances included the Brentwood tree lighting service, Heer's Singing Tower, the Easter program at the Fox theater, and the spring music festival. The annual Choir and Orchestra Concert was scheduled November 17, and December featured caroling in the halls.

Sophomore Choir, also meeting daily, received further practice and instruction to prepare them for the Junior-Senior Choir. As part of their agenda, they took part in the caroling and sang in Baccalaureate, along with junior members of the Junior-Senior Choir.

Band, Madrigal

Set musical theme

Combining talent, practice, and instruction, the Band and Madrigal led the way to a successful school year. The Band presented half-time shows for football games, including the Fulton-Glendale match. Fight songs at pep rallies helped instill spirit as played by the Pep Band.

The Marching Band, strengthened by constant practice, appeared in the Springfield Christmas parade late in November. Adding enthusiasm to basketball games was the duty of the Stage Band.

The annual Band Concert was held February 16.

Directed by Mr. Will, the Madrigal entertained at the talent assemblies, sang carols at a rest home, and took part in the Greenwood exchange assembly using a basis of freedom songs. They were presented with a plaque for their performance at Alice Pittman elementary school.

AS the Band goes "Mexican" during halftime at the Jefferson City-Helias game, Josette Van Gansen tames "The Lonely Bull."

AMBITIOUS members of the Cadet Band, directed by Mr. Gulley, engage in a lively practice session to prepare them for participation in the Advanced Band.

ABOVE, constantly striving for improvement to perfect their performance, GHS Orchestra members rehearse for the "Autumn Serenade" assembly. Right, Becky Jay and Jimmy Nimmo, string ensemble members, practice in preparation for a special appearance.

CONCENTRATION upon their music and cues is evident in the eyes of bass violin players Bill Coe and Martha Fort during the Christmas assembly.

Orchestra, String Ensemble

Entertain students

A fall concert entitled, "Autumn Serenade," November 17, began the '66-'67 season for the Glendale Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Gulley.

December 22, the organization participated in the annual Christmas assembly. The new year found the group busily practicing for the spring concert and the annual city-wide music festival presented in Glendale's auditorium, May 4.

Concluding the activities were a trip in May and the traditional performance at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

Another segment of Glendale's Orchestra program is the string ensemble which is composed of twelve members. The group's first musical activity was November 8 at Open House. After that time, their schedule included other performances.

Pep Club, Pep Squads

Support Falcons

Much of Glendale's pep and lively attitude toward school events can be attributed to the work of the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders in association with Pep Club members.

Yearly activities on the roster for the Pep Club included painting signs, helping to sell programs, and assisting the cheerleaders in promoting school spirit.

The senior cheerleaders' summer itinerary was filled by attendance at a week-long clinic held at SMU in Texas. All squad members went to a special clinic for new cheers at Central. Daily practices were held during August.

Money earned during the summer was used to purchase new, blue basketball uniforms for the varsity squad.

Highlighting the year for the combined squads was an overnight bus trip to Kansas City for two basketball games.

PEP RALLIES stimulate the pride reflected in the faces of the Pep Club members as they sing the Falcon Fight Song.

Kilts swung, hair bounced, and smiles sparkled as the Glengarry Scots came highstepping before any crowd. Supporting the highflying Falcons and led by Majorette Jean Carroll, the Scotties marched at the St. Louis Sumner football game. At the close of the football season the junior members of the corps surprised their senior sisters with a party entitled "Football, Fallin, and Fun."

The new bagpipes, which were received from Scotland last spring, added Scottish flavor and authenticity to Glendale's clan.

The Scotties recognized AFS student, Josette Van Gansen, by making her an honorary Scottie.

Climaxing a year of parades, parties, assemblies, and suppers was the Band and Scottie Concert, February 16, where the drum corps performed the traditional "Scottish Delight" and the "War Fling."

Promote Sports

Tennis, volleyball, bowling, and basketball were available for the members of the Girls' Athletic Association this year. Through intramurals, members earned points and were given awards on the basis of point accumulation at the spring awards banquet. G.A.A. took an active part in two sports days at Hillcrest and Glendale. During the holidays the club brightened nursing homes with Christmas cheer by caroling. Several socials highlighted the club's schedule, and the year's activities were climaxed with a spring campout.

Boys who excelled in sports were included in the Lettermen's Club, the backbone of Glendale's highly successful athletic teams.

Profits from the annual student-faculty basketball game went to buy needed equipment for the athletic department.

Football

Varsity wins conference title; 9-1 record

The Glendale Falcons rolled to an impressive nine wins-one loss record in their 1966 campaign. The record proved essential in capturing the Ozark Conference Title for the Birds with a perfect 4-0 mark. The Falcons won eight straight encounters with victories over such opponents as Kansas City Central, Hillcrest, Joplin, Fulton, and Parkview before losing to highly-rated Columbia Hickman in a wet ball game.

Glendale displayed a powerful offense supported by the hard running of senior tailback Bill Helfrecht, the versatility of senior quarterback Malcolm Hukriede, and a strong front line. Both the offensive and defensive lines were big, strong, and aggressive.

Glendale's football squad received many special honors this year including the championship in the conference, and Bob Lechner was named Quarterback Club "Coach of the Year." Five Falcon regulars were named to the All-Ozarks first team: John Cowan, Alan Duck, Gillespie, Helfrecht, and Hukriede. Cowan, Gillespie, and Helfrecht started for the St. Louis Globe Democrat South's squad in the first annual state high school football classic.

Frosh undefeated; 5-2 season for J-V's

ELUDING Parkview's defenders, Junior Varsity quarterback Jim Kitchell is on his way for good yardage on an end-sweep play against the Vikings.

Glendale's JV's, coached by Sonny Stringer and Bob Price, compiled a 5-2 record. The hard-working, determined team closed their season as conference champs, and statistics reveal them as one of the best sophomore football squads in GHS history.

The "B" team champions averaged 27 points per game while yielding a net average of 18 points defensively. In winning the "B" Ozark Conference Title, the Birds won five of six conference games, the lone loss at the hands of Central's Bulldogs.

Combined efforts of every freshman gridder and the outstanding leadership of Coach Bill Bayless were the winning combination for the creditable frosh team.

Completing their season with a perfect record, the Baby Birds earned a total of six wins. The potent defense held the opponents to an average of two points per game while the young Falcon offense averaged twenty-seven points per contest. The first-year athletes were not scored upon by any offensive unit until the last outing of the season against Joplin South.

Freshmen halfback Jim Gustaveson (30) and center John White (50) close in on a Joplin South player at Lowe Stadium. Glendale won the game 40-13 to finish a perfect season. In the six contests no opponent scored upon them until the final game.

Varsity basketballers ended their 1966-1967 season with a fourth place trophy in the state regional play-offs. The Falcons finished with a 13-9 season and a 4-4 Ozark Conference mark. Roland Shultz paced the squad as he led the city's scorers, averaging over 22 points per game.

With an early season victory over the highly rated Mexico Bulldogs, Glendale proved ready for the state's best squads. However, Parkview ended hopes of competing in the state tournament when it overcame the Falcons by three points in the regionals.

In the annual Blue and Gold tournament, the Birds took second in the Gold division, continuing a string of four straight years Glendale has placed in the area's most difficult tournament.

The team was composed of seven seniors, seven juniors, and two sophomores who dressed out for the regional tournament. Nine boys were given starting roles during the season by Coach Roberts: seniors, Ralph Babb, Steve Bean, Dan Collins, Steve Grant, Wayne Kinser, and Roland Shultz; juniors, Craig Bothwell and Joe Warren; and sophomore, Gary Warren.

CARRYING a 22-point average as Springfield's leading scorer, Roland Shultz (23) stretches to make a dunk shot for two more points against Hillcrest.

JV's take Conference; frosh win seven

Capturing the junior varsity conference title, taking second place honors in the junior varsity tournament, defeating Parkview's JV's for the first time, and compiling the best season and conference records in Glendale history, the sophomore roundballers ended an outstanding 1966-1967 cage season. With an 18-2 record, the JV's showed that they have the potential to build a championship varsity team in the future.

Instrumental in the team's success was high scoring Gary Warren with a 15.2 average, followed by Doug Moellering and Jerry Brown with over 11-point averages. Jim Brown and Pete Lollar worked as playmakers to round off the JV's potent attack.

Hard work and new competition confronted the Freshmen cagers this year in compiling a 7-6 season record.

Taking second place in the Freshman Tourney, the Frosh led impressive wins over Rogersville and Greenwood before losing a thriller to Central's undefeated Freshmen. Ron Sutherland and Mike McNabb paced the squad's scorers.

FRESHMAN roundballer Larry Buzbee out-rebounds his Willard opponent as John White (42) moves in to help.

Cindermen strive toward personal goals

AT an early spring track practice, junior pole vaulting letterman, Randy Chowning, prepares to make his run on the cinder approach to the high bar set at 12'6".

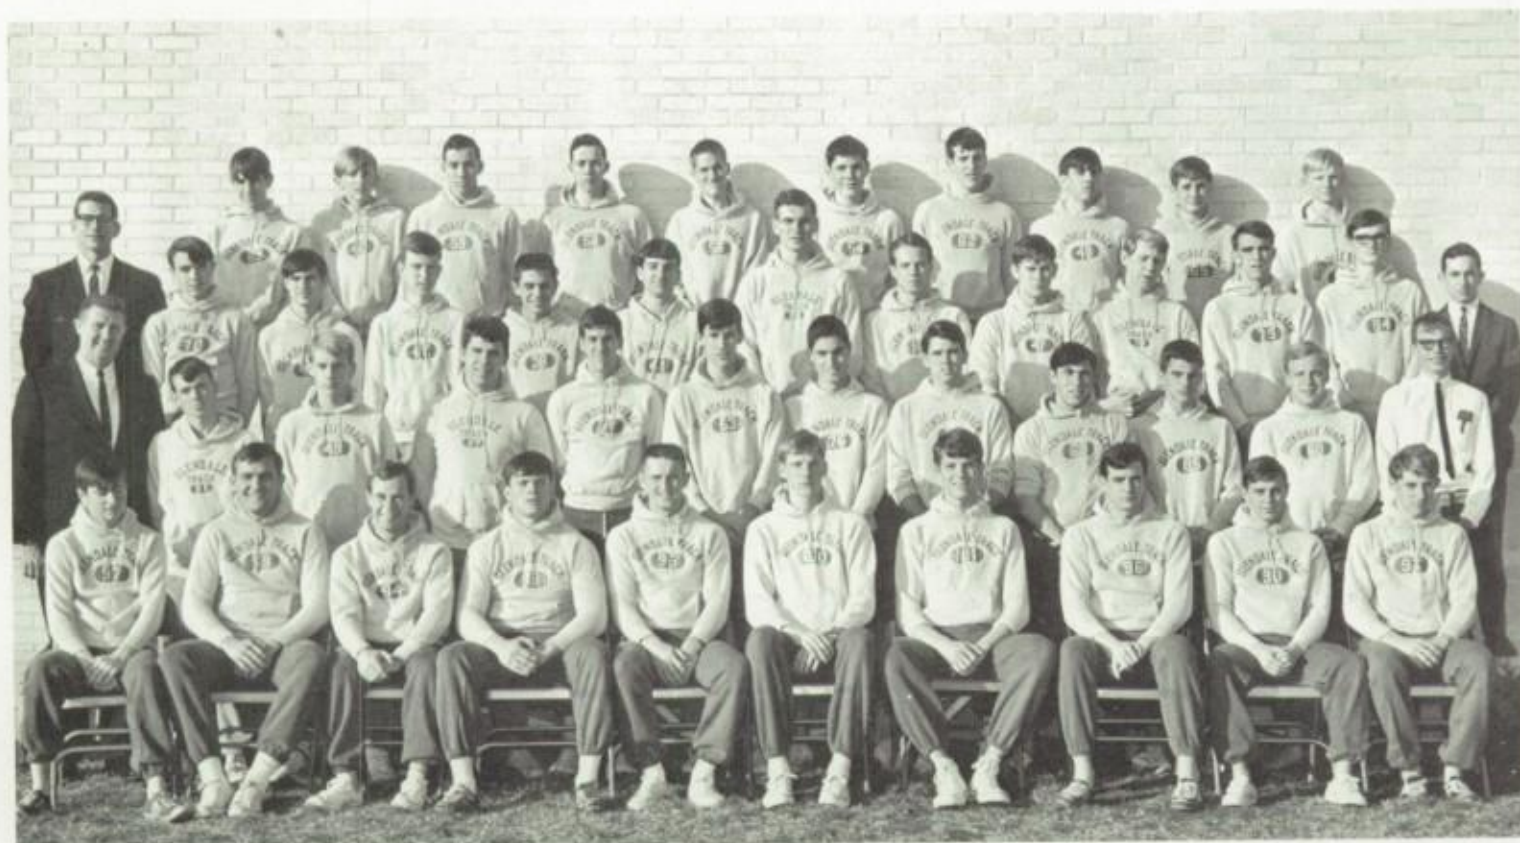

Behind the strength of eleven returning lettermen, Glendale's track and field squad completed a superb year. The Falcons had many leading cindermen on the team including the city high-jump record holder, Roland Shultz, and school record holders, John Quinn, John Gillespie, and John Cowan.

The track and field squad, coached by Bill Bayless, competed in ten varsity meets, including five relays, testing the depth of the squad. Other meets in which the Falcons competed were the MSHSAA Qualifying meet for indoor, the All Relays Invitational, the All City meet, the Pittsburg Relays, the Ozark Conference meet, the MSHSAA District meet, and the MSHSAA outdoor meet. The season began March 16 and ended May 20.

The junior varsity ran in six meets; four open house and the All City and Ozark Conference meets. The freshmen ran in three dual meets against the city high schools and the freshman open house. The junior varsity and freshmen squads were coached by Eddie Baker.

Glendale cindermen competed against the best schools from the Springfield area, the state, and the Midwest.

Baseball

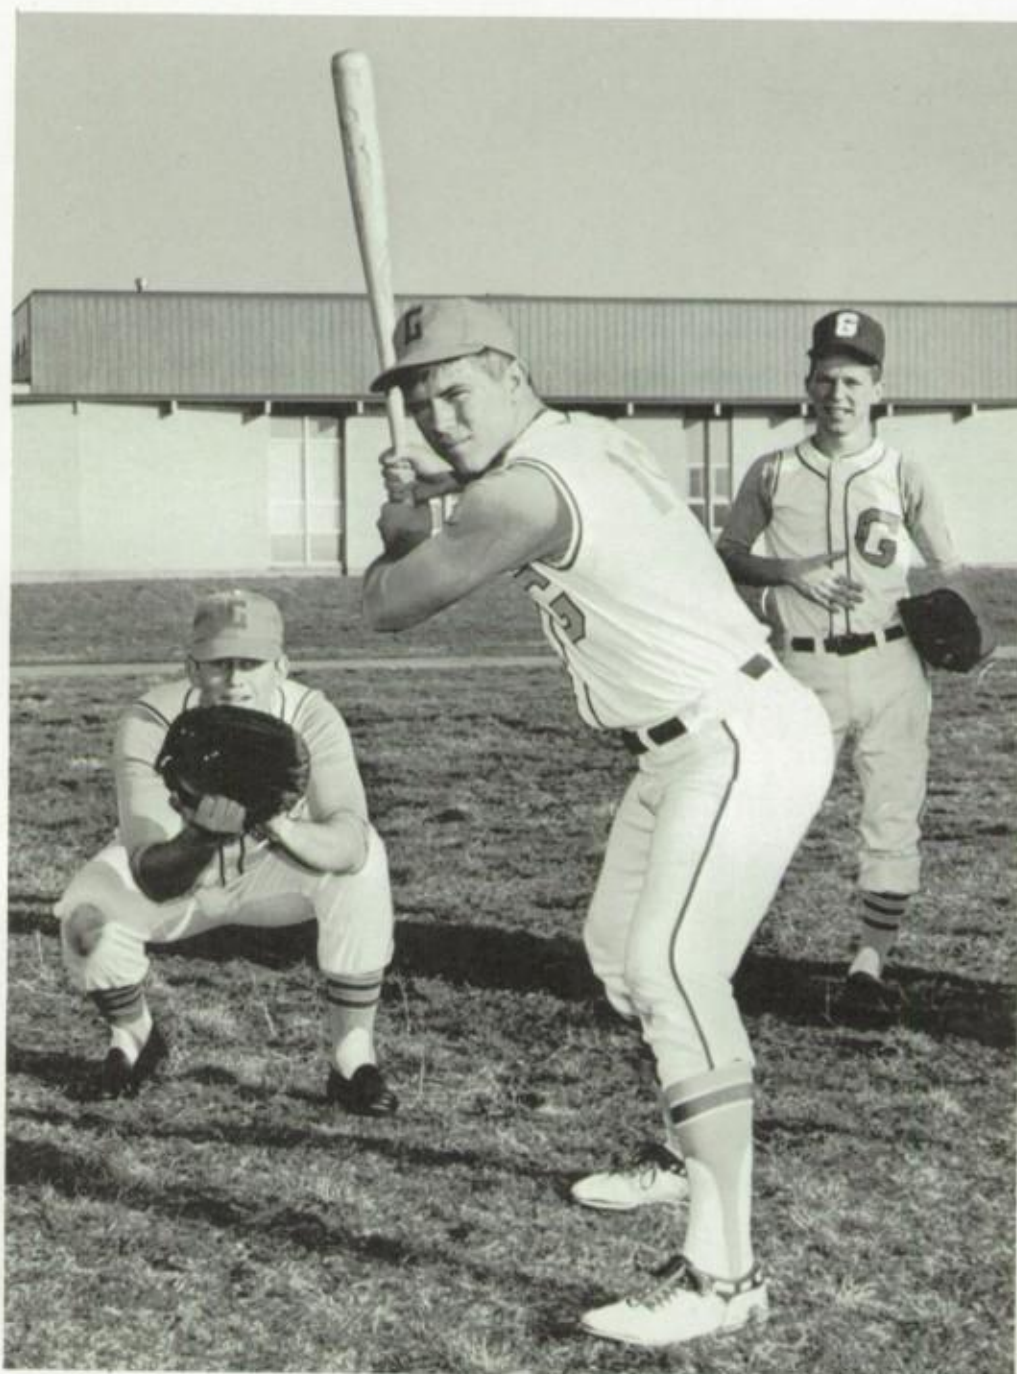

Squad captures Ozark Conference laurels

Glendale's baseball squad was prepared for another tough season of competition behind the support of ten returning lettermen. The team was minus the services of five starters from last year's squad. Last season the Birds captured second in the Ozark Conference race, and this season the Falcons were stronger than in previous years.

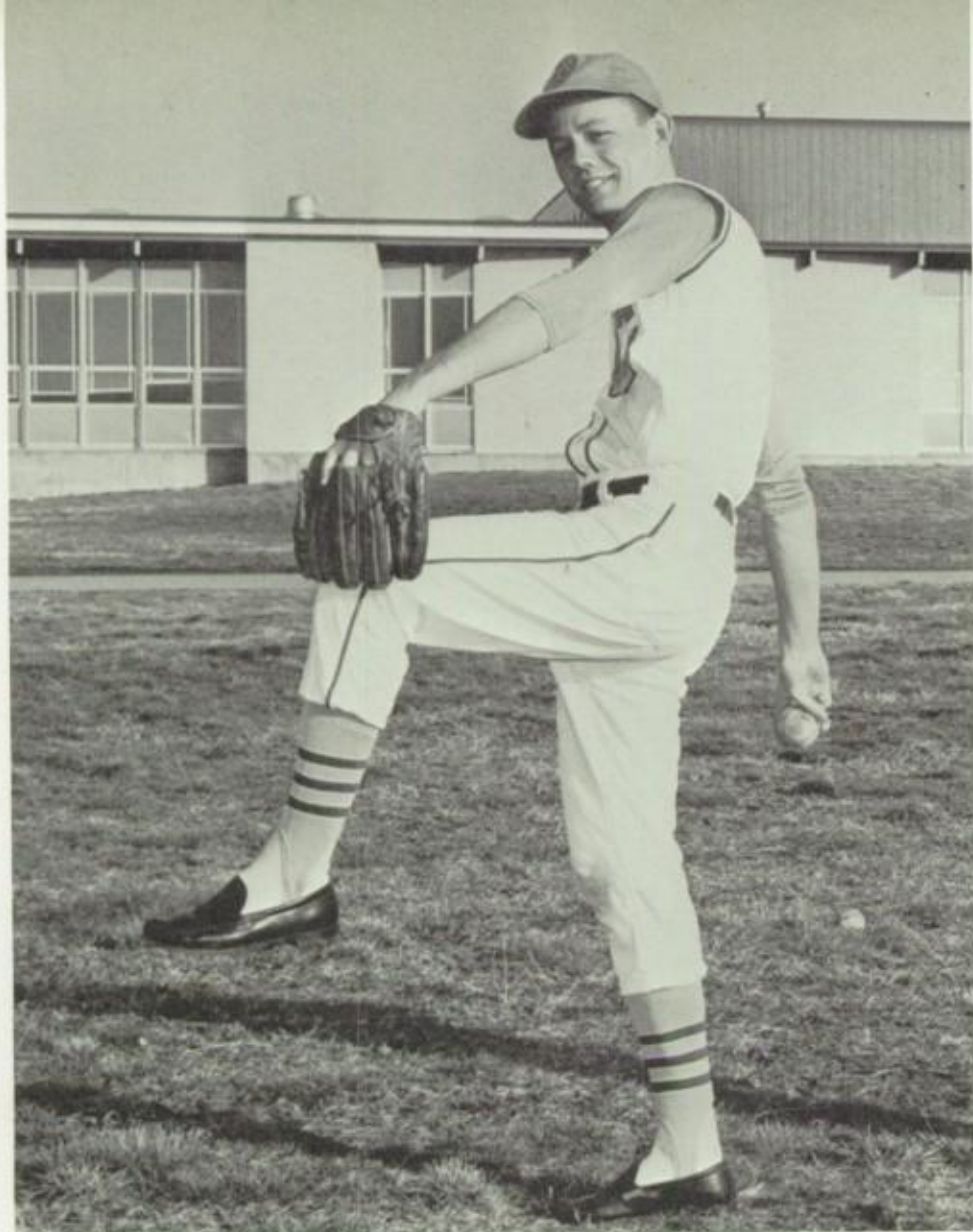

The Falcons were led by lettermen Jim Anderson, Arnie Bader, Craig Bothwell, Steve Cobb, Rick Dunn, Bill Helfrecht, Wayne Kinser, Eddie Pyatt, Beau Robinson, and Steve Rogers. Rogers and Anderson and Pyatt and Bothwell composed the pitching batteries for the Birds.

Behind the big bats of Bill Helfrecht, Wayne Kinser, and Beau Robinson, Glendale completed a winning season. Coach Don Provance and his squad were a large asset to the Falcon spring sport effort. The Birds began practice March 6.

The games were held at Nichols Park and GHS played against conference foes, area powers, and state powers from the four-state area. Glendale players also participated on an independent team which captured the state baseball crown in 1966.

DURING spring batting practice, Bill Helfrecht eyes the ball as he prepares to hit. Jim Anderson catches as Craig Bothwell observes Helfrecht's style.

RETURNING letterman-hurler for the Glendale pitching battery, junior Eddie Pyatt warms up before a Falcon practice game.

Golf, Tennis

Athletes undertake spring sports matches

Behind six returning tennis lettermen, including such talent as Mark Newport, District Singles Champion in 1966, Glendale finished another successful net season.

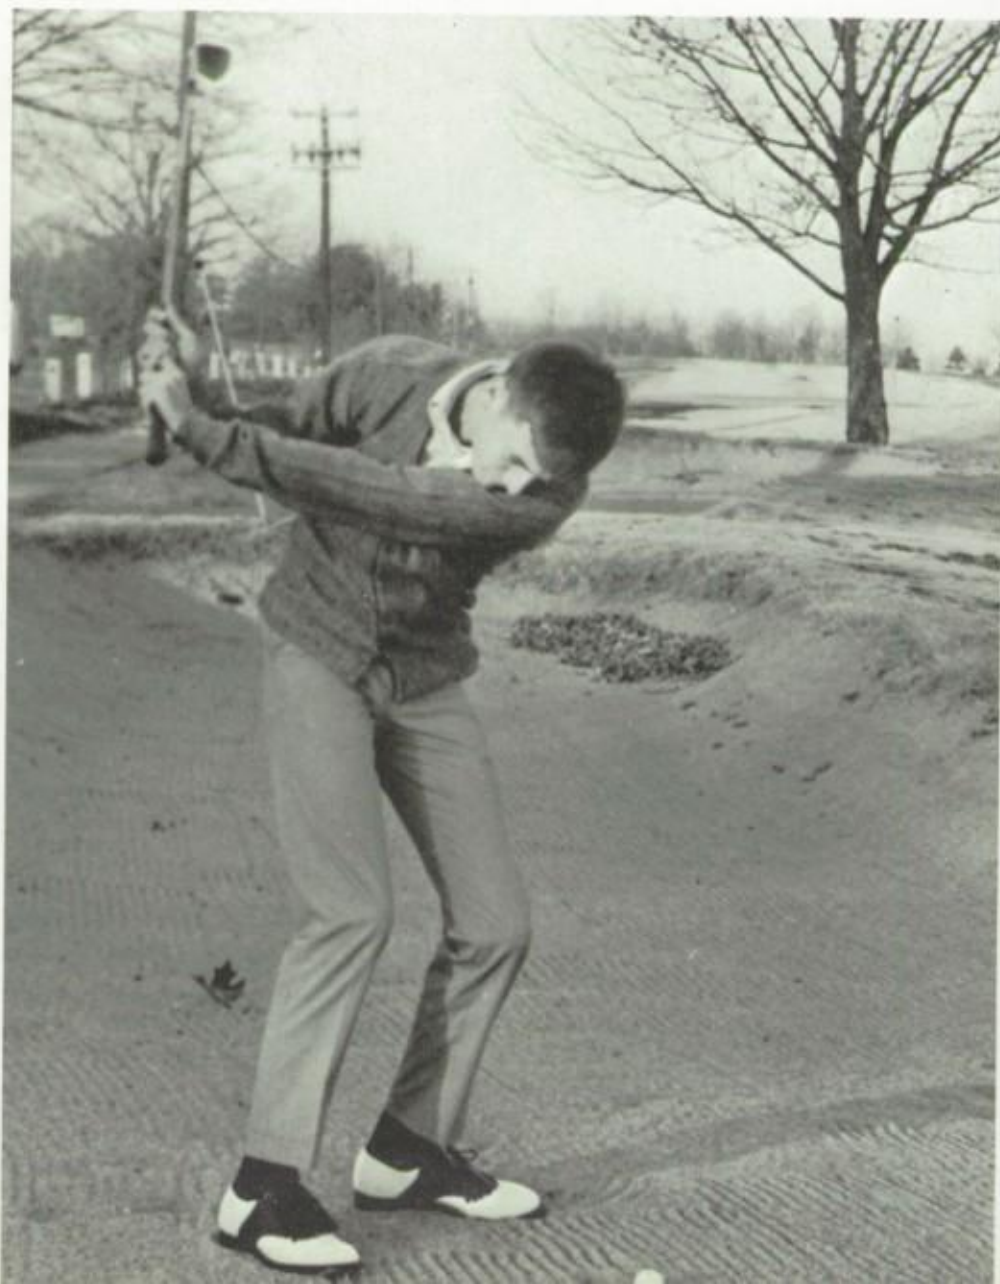

Practice began in early March under the leadership of Coach Lyle Middleton, and the team opened competition with matches against the city high schools before the important SMS relays. Two Ozark Conference matches in Joplin and Springfield preceded the MSHSAA District Tournament and the State Tournament which concluded the season.

With eight returning lettermen, the Falcon linksters, coached by Bob Lechner, also represented Glendale excellently.

Qualifying for the golf team began early in March with the first match in April. Ozark conference tilts were at Joplin and Springfield; also on the schedule was the formidable SMS relay. GHS, through long hours of practice, placed high in these matches.

To finish the season, the golfers challenged their teachers in the annual Student-Faculty match.

SENIOR letterman Tom Warren prepares to blast-out of a sandtrap in one of the practice rounds for the golf squad.

SENIOR Doug Herman, a returning letterman to the Glendale team, backhands a serve to his opponent during a pre-season practice round.

FOLLOWING through as she returns the ball, senior Teresa Crouch captures a victory for the Falcons in Ozark Conference play.

RETURNING TENNIS LETTERMEN—front row, senior Teresa Crouch, four years; junior Betty Anderson, three years; senior Sherry Perry, four years; back row, senior Bob Blair, four years; senior Doug Herman, three years; junior Mark Newport, three years.

Girls' Intramurals, Wrestling

Activities stimulate high competitive spirit

BOWLING an average of 139 per game, junior member of the girls' intramural bowling team, Marilyn Fox, practices with other team members at the Plaza Bowl. Below, Betty Anderson, chosen to the all-tournament team, looks for an opening in the Central defense during city-wide intramural competition.

Intramural sports were available for the first time this year for Glendale girls under the direction of Miss Jane Whitaker and Mrs. Doris Bush. Tennis, volleyball, bowling, basketball, and table tennis comprised the fall and winter sports, with softball in the spring.

At the Hillcrest sports day, Betty Anderson and Sue Phillips were nominated to the all-tournament basketball team.

Glendale was host for the second basketball sports day on January 15 and the first volleyball sports day on March 11. They also attended the spring sports day at Hillcrest.

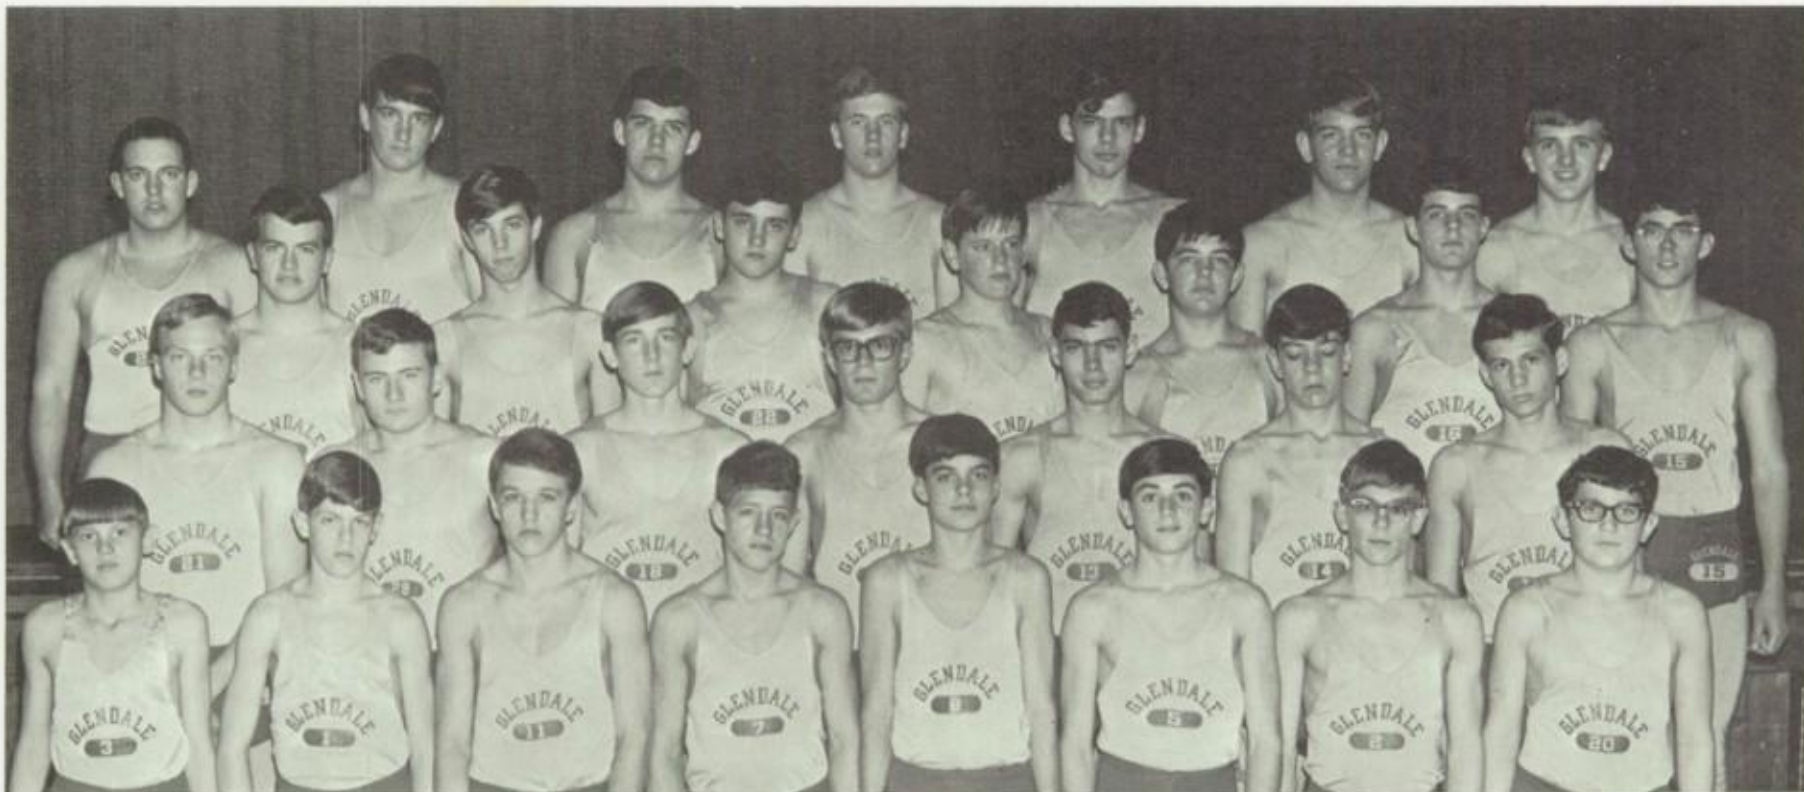

Interscholastic wrestling, under the supervision of Coach Price, was added to Glendale as a main sport this year. The lettermen included two juniors, eleven sophomores and one freshman, competing in all events.

To gain experience, the team competed in intramural wrestling, which preceded the regular season. Thirty-three boys participated in three dual meets, defeating Hillcrest and Parkview and losing to Central. Twelve grapplers entered the all-city meet in which they placed second.

With over 500 boys participating in seven competitive programs, the newest addition to Glendale's sports program was the introduction of intramurals, directed by Mr. Hickey.

Fall intramural squads participated in a basketball tournament with over 32 teams competing. Divided into two brackets, freshman-sophomore and junior-senior, the tournament was run so that each team could play at least two games.

At the same time basketball was being played, a cross-country squad was organized and competition was held until winter activities began. The long distance runners ran during half-time at "B" team football games.

During winter play boys entered into table tennis, volleyball, and bowling. In table tennis 125 boys competed. Bowling teams were comprised of 60 bowlers in 364 games.

Rounding out the year were the spring sports. Two programs were offered, golf and soccer, with Mr. Florez assisting in the soccer program.

For four years we've written in each others yearbook, but this one is the most difficult. I know you hate sentimentality, so I won't dwell on it - but it does seem a little funny to me.

(After all, who ever heard of exchanging yearbooks + diary yearbook)

Oh Bob! I just think more of you than any other person in that school.

We shared so much, Bob - from that silly name we "went together" in the 8th grade to our "short-comings" in Spanish to the free McDonald's hamburgers - to a friendship of such depth, that no difference in colleges, or towns or miles could ever make me forget it.

I am really glad you have been very president this year - it's a shame they had to wait until next year to give the office different duties - but you used the first "party man VIP" the school has ever had. And I used all my heart I thank you for making me social commissioner. I don't know what I would have done with myself this year if I hadn't had that letter "Something" to let me feel a real part of Sherdell. And I owe that 100% to Bob Stathine.

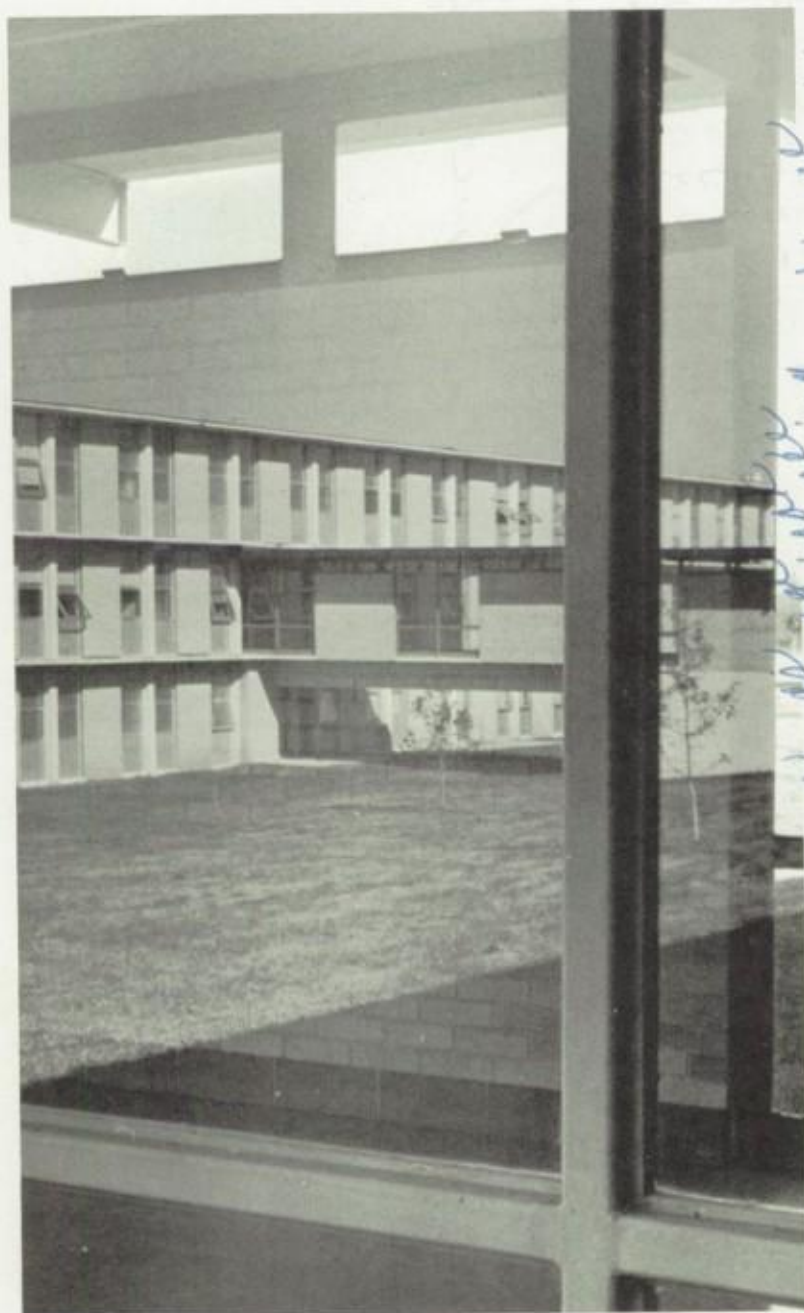

He's one person, you see, that I owe a lot to. In addition to being a leader - a humble, friendly, all-around - he is a person that I consider my ideal. I've talked before about our homes - and the little every day problems that keep life interesting - and I truly believe you are the best, most respectful "family member" I know. ~~Thank you for everything you have done for me and for the school.~~

Bob, I imagine in the next four years I may just pick up the phone and call you - just to hear you talk. I really

But it does mean the ending of a way of life that has guided me the privilege of just being around you, daily. I suppose I am a weird person to depend on someone as much as I always have on you! In September the doors of Glendale opened wide to admit the largest class ever. As the newness of being freshmen wore off, the first-year students determined to set new and exciting goals.

The football boys were undefeated and were scored upon in only one game while playing in the new stadium built this year for their purposes. They set new records in the United Fund, helped much in Student Council, and added the school spirit needed at football and basketball games through Pep Club activities.

On September 5, the Student Council sponsored a Freshmen Mixer with entertainment provided by the Glengarry Scots, the cheerleaders, and a school band.

If success can be measured by freshmen eagerness and ability to succeed, then the future generations of spirited "Fighting Falcons" shall not cease.

Sophomores

Seek new status

With high standards and accomplishments, the sophomore class completed two years and anticipated two more years of future achievement.

Many new fields of interest opened their doors to GHS sophomores. As they reached the legal driving age of 16, a course in driver's education helped familiarize students with proper driving procedures and traffic laws.

In addition, a wider variety of clubs accepted sophomores into their ranks. Membership possibilities included Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y, Key Club, junior varsity teams, FBLA, cheerleading, and the Lettermen's Club.

Having completed half of their four-year high school career, Glendale's sophomores prepared to face two more rigorous years of maintaining the Falcon standards of athletic and scholastic achievement.

Juniors

Become leaders

Combining their energy, ideas, and creative ability to make all projects successful, the junior class became one of the most active in the Falcon Generation.

As representatives, officers, and members, they enthusiastically participated in Glendale's music and dramatics departments, varsity cheerleading, Scot-ties, Student Council, clubs, and athletic teams.

Juniors, encouraged by Mr. Moore, class ad-viser, supported the spring play, Carousel, and sub-mitted writings for Vignettes and the QUILL. They took part in school assemblies and boosted spirit at games and rallies.

The junior class produced a fine showing of scholars, musicians, athletes, and friendly students necessary to the growth and continuation of the famous "Fighting Falcon Spirit" for next year's senior class.

JUNIOR officers, Brad Fisher, Leanne Modarell, and Mark Yar-nell pause to reflect and evaluate their achievements.

COACH Stringer muses with Terry Larmer, Gene Meyer, Hoot White, and Byard Sheridan as he explains the human heart in junior health class.

Seniors

Graduate as first Falcon Generation, 1967

While progressing through high school, the members of the graduating class of 1967 have taken on the responsibility of creating something living from the brick, glass, and steel structure called Glendale; they have created the Falcon Generation.

Four years ago, today's seniors were preparing to enter as freshmen a new school; now as they leave, they can be proud of the fact that they instituted a tradition of school spirit and scholarship to be followed by the countless classes to come.

Rich memories of the elations and disappointments of high school life, the exams, the games, dances, teachers, lasting friendships, all cause a reluctance to leave behind that which has been so much a part of life for so long. At the same time there is an eagerness to take the next step, confident that with what has been gained through high school a successful foothold in the future will be reached.

This, the first Falcon Generation will remember and be remembered by Glendale High School.

TOM Baker, wearing the gray cap and gown symbolic of twelve years of scholastic achievement, receives his diploma from James Ford, principal.

Bob,
It's been a real pleasure knowing you Bob.
You've been a tremendous leader this year - keep it up. You've got a great personality.
Lots of luck forever,
Tom Baker

FOLLOWING a Glendale assembly, Don Grady of "My Three Sons" tells of his tour with the Spurrllows to reporter Mark Strawn.

Bob,

Well we have had a pretty full year learning quotes and all that good stuff. You have successfully carried out your vice-presidential tasks and did ~~was~~ a good job ^{of it} even though you did get nervous. I commend you. I'll see you sometime I guess.

Good Luck. Scott Payne

Memorial

Demands respect

"I have fought the hard fight of life."

David Cantrell, having lived sixteen years in the battle of life, was killed on March 2, 1967, in an automobile accident. A Glendale junior, David was a valuable member of the track team and the student body. The fond memory of him will long live in the hearts of his friends and teachers.

"I have fought the hard fight of life."

Thousands of American servicemen, including men from Springfield, Greene County, and Missouri have lost their lives in the Viet Nam war. Many Glendale graduates are now serving or will soon be serving in Viet Nam to defend America's ideals.

To all those who have fought the hard fight of life and displayed courage and honor, we owe an immeasurable debt of gratitude. May these pages speak for the appreciation that we felt for the soldiers who fought the hard fight of life and gave men freedom.

FALCON staff members congregate in mass confusion in an effort to finish up the last picture cropping, copy blocks, cutlines, triplicates, and typing.

I say about your hair too seriously.
 You wouldn't be the same without it.
 Glendale is the greatest school and you really helped make it that way for me. I'll probably see you this summer because you do live next door to Janice and you know me. Have fun this summer and don't drive too many Mustangs even if I do get one. Come and see me sometime if you have time and enough gas & very

Express thanks

A lot of fun, laughter, tears, hard work, and sleepless nights went into making the FALCON '67 one to remember, and we hope one of accurate memories for each student in this, the first Falcon Generation. Those long hours into the night proved valuable only when fortified with countless trips to hamburger stands and custodian Bill Pruitt's key to the pop machine.

We'd like to express great appreciation to the administration, the faculty, and the student body for their patience and understanding while we took the necessary pictures and interviewed for copy and cutline information.

Very special gratitude and a deep appreciation goes to Mrs. June Burkett, our worthy adviser, friend, and moral support. Thank you is also expressed to journalism coordinator, Mrs. Virginia Woodring.

Thanks to photographers Suzanne Lipscomb, Linda Chatterton, and especially to Steve Johnson, who used his own time and supplies for FALCON pictures without receiving any journalism credit.

There are so many journalism students who gave their valuable time to assemble this '67 yearbook that just 'thank you' isn't enough.

In editing the FALCON '67 we tried to recreate a memory of Glendale High School, "where the action is" in the Falcon Generation, 1966-67.

Dear Bob,

This is almost the hardest yearbook for me to sign. There are really too many good times - I hate to say anything for fear that some of the fun might be erased. - I really guess that that is really impossible. At the very first of school (Chrissy said isn't Bob great.) I really couldn't say anything much because I had not had the chance to know you. Now that I have had that chance and have known you better than I ever hoped to. You are one of the greatest! Next year at WePamu with all those chocolate covered B's

Bas.

This is your last year (luckily for me)
It's been fun on your dates, and everything. Have a good time in college and maybe just maybe I'll see you this summer.
Your friend,
Larry ~~Bentley~~

you sure are a great guy and I've really enjoyed knowing you this year even though I've known a lot longer than this I don't know why I said that it was sort of stupid really Bob I hope you have a great time in college even though I know you will take easy Bob.
too. We messed around a lot and your buddies had so much fun. Those Charlie's were

Sundays with just the three of us. It would never have been the same without Janice. Remember the first of the year when you were my counselor

you don't

Well, Mr. Vice President, I must say that this has been a successful year for all. Congratulations on making it through 4 years at YHS (the 1st year at that). I could say some "misty" things like Janice did, only it would just be a repeat, and they teach us in speech not to do that. Just remember the good times we've had together these past four years, like swimming, kick-the-can, and, I suppose, even tying the cans to the car (although I think that's one thing I'd like to forget. I lost some sleep over it or something). I'll never forget our "fun" times in Bozo's class last year, and our great year as Stunch club officers (Mr. President). I hope that next year I can carry on the great traditions (?) you started.

Remember me next year when you're slaving away at De Pauw, and I'm making fame for Slendale as a great debator!

P.S. Let's measure stacks! So fill this in, I will include choice statements by our own William Brandon Bowman, "That was my idea", "nothing to be commended to", "Small potatoes.", "It was perfectly dismal.", "Now listen you", etc., etc., etc.
Good luck
C.R.A.

Bot, The last time I argued your yearbook I didn't dream I should be arguing you again as soon. This has been my fourth year at Alondale and for you, your most successful I give enjoyed following your leadership as Vice Pres. and Pres. of the Fraternity. For God you couldn't go on the trip to St. Louis. On second thought maybe you're lucky. Slendale has a great Vice Pres. and I only hope a great Senior Class. I only hope next year can meet the obligation you and the other great seniors put upon us. I'll be you proud and a lot this summer and hope to find a few more thousands things for us to do. We'll surely miss you on the staff next year at just won't be the same without you. I really did enjoy listening to your great talks to your great talks. I think the Alondale are the greatest I have ever heard. Everyone agrees. Well since I'm meaning the end and counting more than I am I'm happy. (No I didn't mean it like that) I want to wish you the best of luck at college and I know you'll be a great success. So you were at Alondale for 4 years! (I think)
